

“A Bad Mouse Ruins The House”

By Swapna Gangopadhyay

Hello there, My Awesome Young Readers!

Guess what? I’ve written a book called A Bad Mouse Ruins the House, and I can’t wait for you to read it!

This story came straight from my imagination (with a little help from snacks and silly daydreams). It’s full of fun, mischief, and a very naughty mouse who causes quite a bit of trouble. But it’s not just about giggles—it’s also about learning what’s right and what’s wrong, even when grown-ups don’t always set the best example.

Sometimes, people in charge do things that aren’t okay. And just because they’re older or wear fancy suits doesn’t mean we should copy them. This book reminds us that it’s brave to speak up—or at least to know in our hearts that bad behavior isn’t normal and it’s never cool, even when a mouse behave badly.

Please share the book with your friends and teachers if possible. If you have thoughts, feelings, or even doodles inspired by it, I’d love to hear from you! You can leave a review by writing to me, or ask a grown-up to help you sending me a message at info@dreamywriter.com. I read every single one (even the ones with glitter).

Thanks for giving this book a chance. I hope it makes you smile, think, and maybe even shout, “Hey! That mouse needs a time-out!”

Lots of love and big thanks,
